

A Letter from Pastor Sharei

Greetings, Beloveds!

Grace and peace to you in this season after Epiphany. Epiphany is a season of revelation, of light breaking in, of God showing up in places we didn't expect, and of clarity arriving slowly, over time. It feels especially fitting that this is the season in which I begin my ministry with you.

As I step into this role, I do so with gratitude, humility, and a deep sense of hope for what God is already unfolding among us. Beginnings are sacred and a little tender. They invite us to pay attention, to notice where the light is showing up, to listen for what God might be revealing, and to trust that we do not walk this path alone.

This season reminds us that faith is not static. We are continually being called deeper into love, into justice, and into the shared work of building God's kin-dom together. As we get to know one another, my prayer is that we remain open to learning, to change, and to the Spirit moving in ways both quiet and bold.

I am honored to be joining you in this moment, and I look forward to discovering, together, how God's light will continue to shine through this community.

With gratitude and hope,

Pastor Sharei
